LOUIS A. KOLTS KILLED BY FALL

Fighting Brush Fire in Woods Monday Evening He Walked Off Quarry Ledge, Falling 70 Feet To His Death—Popular Paid Fireman.

Fireman Louis A. Kolts, of the Central Fire Station, while fighting a brush fire in the woods Monday evening walked off a quarry ledge, falling seventy feet to his death, while Fireman Irving Eignor narrowly escaped the same fate. The tragedy occurred about 7 o'clock that evening.

The ledge over which Fireman Kolts fell is located about three hundred feet in the rear of the old Newark Lime & Cement Company barn on the high road, and near what is known as Finan's pond. The fissure caused by excavating by the cement company is about twenty-five feet in width and extends for a considerable distance. From the high road side the descent to the bottom is about thirty feet, while on the side from which Kolts fell the drop is about seventy feet.

It was shortly after 6 o'clock that evening when a still alarm was sent into Central Fire Station for the brush fire in the woods and Firemen Kolts and Eignor answered the alarm. From what can be learned they had extinguished the fire with the aid of chemicals and were on their way back to the truck when Kolts stepped off the ledge, falling to his death below. Eignor escaped a like fate by grasping a shrub.

Fireman Eignor immediately sought assistance and a hurry call was sent into police headquarters for the ambulance and Policeman James Lawrence made a record run to the scene, arriving there just four minutes after the call was received. Dr. A. A. Stern was also called and Coroner Kelly notified.

When Officer Lawrence arrived on the scene it was decided best to get to the bottom of the cliff from the high road side and Deputy Fire Chief Murphy, Officer Lawrence and Firemen William Geary and George Brown went about the work of rescue.

The canvas litter was removed from the ambulance and Kolts, who was unconscious, but whose heart still beat faintly, was placed in the litter to which strong ropes were attached. While the litter was being hauled to the top Officer Lawrence and Fireman Brown climbed up the side of the cliff to steady the litter so that it would not bang against the rocky side of the ledge.

Kolts never regained consciousness and was dead when his body was brought to the top of the cliff. Dr. Stern, who arrived quickly on the scene, worked over Kolts but he was beyond medical aid.

Fireman Kolts was a son of Fire Commissioner and Mrs. Louis H. Kolts, and besides his parents is survived by his wife and two small children, his brother, Edwin, a letter carrier, and a sister, Mrs. Theodore Messinger. He resided on Brewster street.

The dead man had been a member of the paid fire department since March 1, 1916, and before becoming a member of the paid department he was an active member of Weiner Hose Company. He was a young man of sterling character, and the news of his death came as a shock to his host of friends. He was very popular with the other members of the department.

ULSTER AND ORANGE IN NEW STATE

Assemblyman Leininger Has Bill to Separate 12 Counties in Watershed to Lower Taxes.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Feb. 4.—(Special.)—Ulster and Orange counties are included with twelve other counties within the watershed, which Assemblyman Leininger of Long Island City would create into a separate state.

Assemblyman Leininger believes that the creation of the separate state would decrease the taxes in the counties he names to constitute the proposed state and holds that since many of the residents of those counties are commuters to New York city, the advantage of his scheme would be double to them.

The proposition is to be submitted in the form of a referendum and if carried, the governor and the United States senators from this state as well as the representatives in congress of the various counties affected, will receive copies of the act and will be requested to use their utmost endeavors to obtain the consent of congress for the admission of the proposed new state.

Other counties which would be included in the new state are Nassau, Suffolk, Westchester, Putnam, Sullivan, Dutchess, Rockland and New York city.

BOLSHEVIKI TO WAR

On All Fronts to Bring on World Revolt.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Feb. 4.—The Bolshevik government in Russia is calling all classes between the ages of 20 and 45 to the colors and the latest order of the congress of soviets is preparing for war on all fronts, said a Helsingfors dispatch to the Times today.

The Bolshevists are aiming to bring about a general revolution.

BOLSHEVIKI ACTIVE IN ENGLISH STRIKE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Feb. 4.—Leaders of the electrical workers' union today threatened to plunge the city into darkness on Thursday and cripple all electric railways unless the government interven-s in the national strike.

The cabinet has decided to grant the railway clerks' demand for recognition thus forestalling their joining the strike, but a sinister leaflet campaign continues, says the Daily Express.

The Bolshevik leaders are urging a national railway strike on Sunday.

KINGMAN ACCEPTS CHAIRMANSHIP

Of C. of C. Industrial Committee Which Probably Has Broader Field And More Possibilities Than Any Other.

W. C. Kingman has accepted the chairmanship of the industrial committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Chairman Kingman has called the first meeting of this committee for Monday, February 10, at 4 p. m. at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

The function of the committee will be to work for the industrial development of Kingston, especially through the location here of new industries.

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce office are now in constant touch with industrial prospects. The co-operation with a strong industrial committee, however, is essential so that it may be possible to mobilize all the resources of Kingston, to make a thorough going study of the city's advantages, and to give them effective publicity, to search out prospects and to present the claims of Kingston aggressively.

One task of the committee will be to collect the experience of other cities in their campaigns to secure new industries and to apply the best of these experiences for the benefit of Kingston.

The other members who have been appointed on this committee are: M. C. Crosby, J. C. Klein, Sam Bernstein, Jr., W. C. DeWitt, Louis Beeres, A. C. Connelly, Morris Santer, Thomas Flemming, A. D. Rose, C. R. Stull, A. J. Burns, E. N. Palen, C. W. Lewis, William Van Slyke, O. R. Hiltebrant, R. E. Leighton, Irvin McCausland and N. H. Fessenden.

MERCERS WIN FROM ARROW FIVE

The Mercer team of the Student A league at the Y. M. C. A. continues to show class, as it defeated the fast Arrow Five team recently. Fred Dressel and Art Thompson were in wonderful form, the former having 11 field goals to his credit and the latter 10. The passing of Van Bramer, who secured 5 goals himself, was largely responsible for Dressel's record. The next game of the league will be on Saturday between the Buffaloes and Arrow Five.

Mercers, 45: Van Bramer, f; Dressel, f; Schreiber, c; Lang, g; Hills, g.

Arrow Five, 26: Rowland, f; Gregory, f; Thompson, c; Maroney; g; Kelly, g.

Summary—Field goals—Van Bramer, 5; Dressel, 11; Schreiber, 4; Lang, 1; Rowland, 3; Thompson, 10. Foul goals—Van Bramer, 1.

Substitutes—Kuhlman for Lang; Scott for Kelly. Referee—L. Smith.

The results of two rather interesting basketball games preliminary to the opening of the City Y. M. C. A. league were as follows:

Student B, 4: Dedrick, f; E. Brown, f; Burger, c; Vogel, g; Corrigan, g.

Employed Boys, 12; Koenig, g; Gallagher, f; Hyatt, c; Teller, g; Welsh, g.

Summary—Goals, Hyatt, 2; Burger, Vogel, Gallagher, Wolff. Fouls, Gallagher, 2; Harris, Hyatt. Substitutes, Harris for Wolff.

Student A, 24; Thompson, f; Rowland, f; Van Bramer, c; O'Reilly, g; Schreiber, g.

Boy Scouts, 14; Goldberg, f; Rhind, f; Carson, c; Donavon, g; Margolis, g.

Summary—Goals, Van Bramer, 6; Schreiber, 2; Thompson, 2; Rowland, Rhind, 2; Goldberg.

Mrs. Pugsley to Speak.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Wurts Street Baptist Church will hold a meeting in the chapel on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Wilson Pugsley, wife of the evangelist, will give an address on the subject, "Under Two Flags." A large attendance is desired to hear this interesting address, also for the annual election of officers.

Bolshevik Control: Start Massacre.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Stockholm, Feb. 4.—Three hundred persons were massacred by Bolshevik troops at Kharkov, in Ukrainia, said a dispatch from Helsingfors today. The order for the massacre was the first issued by the new Bolshevik government which has just taken over control at Kharkov.

BAVARIA AT ODDS WITH PRUSSIA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Amsterdam, Feb. 4.—As the date of the opening of the national assembly at Weimar—Februray 6—approaches the struggle between Prussia and south Germany becomes more bitter.

If the situation continues Bavaria will likely secede from the rest of Germany, according to information from Munich today.

The choice of Weimar as a meeting place for the national assembly was a victory for Bavaria but the assembly is expected to be transferred to Berlin after being in session about a fortnight at Weimar.

Chancellor Ebert probably will be chosen provisional president.

Leaders of the Bavarians assert that the Prussians are trying to make a catspaw of Bavaria.

SNYDER COMPLETES QUARTER CENTURY

Policeman Frank H. Snyder on Wednesday Will Celebrate his 25th Anniversary as a Member of Kingston's Police Force.

Officer Frank H. Snyder, one of the most popular members of Kingston's police force, on Wednesday will celebrate his twenty-fifth anniversary as a member of the police department, and will be entitled to wear five service stripes on his sleeve. The only other member of the force who equals Officer Snyder's record for length of service is Policeman Edwin Shader, who in June will have completed his 28th year of active service. Officer William Ryan in March will also have rounded out his first quarter century as a member of the department.

SPECIAL MEETINGS

Being Held at Albany Avenue Baptist Church.

The special meetings at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church began Sunday evening with a large congregation. The young people of the Christian Endeavor Society attended in a body, and the pastor, Rev. A. S. Cole, preached a special sermon to them on "The Call of Christ to Youth." Miss Ruth Harris, gospel singer, was at her best and sang a number of gospel songs. She has a clear and pleasing voice, enunciates every word distinctly and puts feeling and power into her message of song. Meetings will continue to be held every night this week, except Saturday, and all are invited to attend. Sunday school classes will attend in a body on different nights. Monday night the classes of Mrs. Brink, Mrs. Brigham and Mrs. Cole were in attendance and took part in the service of song. To-night the classes of Miss Healy, Miss Shoemaker and Miss Rich will be present. Wednesday night is men's night, and the classes taught by Dr. Banker and Mr. Decker will come in a body. Thursday night will see the large Philathea Class taught by Mrs. E. M. Fultz, and on Friday night the boys' classes taught by Mr. Brigham and Mr. Cole, will come as a delegation.

Third Labor Meeting Thursday.

Mrs. Mary P. Scully, national organizer for the American Federation of Labor, will be the principal speaker on Thursday evening of this week at the third of the series of public meetings to be held in this city under the auspices of Central Trade and Labor Council. The meeting will be held in the court room of the court house and other speakers will discuss the labor question. All interested in the subject will be welcome and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance and it is hoped there will be a large attendance of salesladies and salesmen from the stores.

Newburgh Negro Murdered.

John Schoonmaker, colored, 58 years old, assistant night watchman in the office of the Orange County Traction Company, at Newburgh, was shot about 12:20 Monday morning by Raphael Lucabetti, an Italian shoemaker, of Walden. Fifteen minutes later Lucabetti was placed under arrest. Lucabetti missed the last car to Walden and when told he could not spend the night at the power house he walked out. Schoonmaker noticed Lucabetti had a revolver in his hand and rebuked him for carrying it and then the Italian fired without warning.

To Be Admitted To The Bar.

Mark Sampson of 53 North Front street, who has been reading law at the office of Frank W. Private Charles Ingraham, of 102d Trench Mortar Battery, 27th Division, son of William A. Ingraham, 493 Wilbur avenue, who arrived from overseas about two weeks ago, was honorably discharged from U. S. army today, at Camp Upton, to where he was transferred from Camp Mills.

TESTIMONY AT GRENADE INQUEST

Hugh DuBois, Government Inspector, Also Saw Tray of Bouchons Fall Just Before Explosion Occurred.

Coroner Kelly continued the testimony this morning in the investigation as to the cause of the explosion which resulted in the deaths of three employes and the injuring of many at the American Grenade Loading Company at Port Ewen on the afternoon of November 8, 1918.

All of the testimony taken thus far in the case has been read and signed by the witnesses with the exception of the witnesses sworn this morning when the inquest convened in the court house. Coroner Kelly was called on the death of Louis Kolts and the opening of investigation was delayed until his arrival at 10:45.

The first witness examined by Assistant District Attorney Hasbrouck was William Davis, of 60 Second avenue, who was employed at the plant by the government as assistant chief inspector on the night force. Davis arrived to work on the fatal afternoon at about 5:10 o'clock and was in the main line powder plant about two hundred feet away from the scene at the time of the explosion. He stated that he had made a tour of inspection about ten minutes prior to the explosion and although not well acquainted with the operations in the bouchon unit everything seemed to be running smoothly at that time. He heard the explosions from the main line powder plant but did not go to the scene of destruction until morning. According to the witness the day force was to work one-half hour later on this day and his men were to have relieved the day force at 5:30 o'clock had the explosion not occurred.

A diagram of the bouchon assembling unit of the plant showing the floor plan of the room in which the explosion occurred, was offered in evidence and Joseph Southard, the constructor of the plant, was re-called to the stand to mark the blue print.

One of the most important witnesses discovered in the case was sworn next. Hugh DuBois, the government inspector on duty at the table near the scene of the explosion, corroberated the testimony of Peter Schatzel in stating that he saw a tray of bouchons fall from the conveyor to the floor at the time of the explosion. Mr. DuBois resides at 17 Belvedere street and is at present employed in an ammunition factory in New Jersey, from where he was called to testify this morning.

DuBois was a night inspector and had been assigned by William Davis to relieve one of the girls at the inspector's table in the bouchon room about 15 minutes before the explosion. He had no knowledge of the routine work of this department but had done the same kind of inspecting on previous occasions. His table, he stated, was near the shellac racks and he faced in that direction. His sole attention was centered on his work and he did not notice the conveyor or what was on it although he said that trays of bouchons were being placed on his table by someone from somewhere. DuBois said that he examined about 15 or 20 out of every tray of 44 bouchons and that every individual detonator was not inspected. He heard the click of a primer cap and looked up, knowing what it meant, and saw a tray of bouchons tip off of the conveyor and fall to the floor. The first explosion followed almost immediately but in the meantime he had shouted run and started out of the nearest door. He heard the explosion from the outside and stated that one loud report followed the first and also several minor explosions. DuBois testified that he paid no attention whatever to the moving conveyor or what was on it until he heard the primer click and looked up and saw a tray fall from the conveyor beyond the inspectors' table, where it should have been removed. George Ennis, the other inspector, testified last week that he had taken trays from the conveyor as they neared his table when no one was there to do it, but DuBois today stated that he never noticed the conveyor at all or never removed any tray from it. He claimed that it would be a physical impossibility to

The Dublin correspondent of the Central News reported that James McGarry and one other Sinn Feiner had escaped from Lincoln prison as well as De Valera.

COLDER WEATHER IS THE PROMISE

Of the Government Weather Prophet For Wednesday—Ice on Move in River—Hail Storm Here—Is Groundhog a Real Prophet?

While the weather turned off cold Monday night and some new ice formed it was not of sufficient thickness to hold what there was on the move in the Hudson river. This morning the weather had moderated, and at noon it grew slightly colder and a hail storm visited the city.

The government weather prophet, who gets paid for prohpesying about the weather, has promised lower temperatures for Wednesday. This is in line with the prophesy of Bre'r Groundhog on Sunday who, when he saw his shadow, retired for a six weeks' snooze. Monday's weather showed that Bre'r Groundhog had fallen down, but he has still time to redeem himself and show doubters that he is a real genuine signature blown in the bottle prophet.

WILSON SATISFIED WITH NATIONS LEAGUE PROGRESS

War Responsibility and Punishments Most Interesting Work of Peace Delegates--Greek Claims Remain to Fore--Lansing and Wilson Head Important Committees.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Feb. 4.—Balkan problems, involved in the peace claims of Greece, were before the representatives of the big five powers when they met at the foreign office today.

M. Venizelos, Greek premier, through whose efforts Greece came into the war on the side of the Allies, delivered his concluding arguments.

The complicated questions bound up in the claims of the Czechslovaks follow the Greek demands before the peace delegates.

The election of Secretary of State Robert Lansing as chairman of the committee on responsibility for the war gives the United States two of the most important committee heads. President Wilson is head of the league of nations commission, which met yesterday, and will meet again at the Hotel Crillon this evening.

The committee on responsibility for the war is probably the most interesting of all because it deals with the questions that must be argued dispassionately before any judgment is taken. There has been no public outline of Mr. Lansing's opinion in the matter although it is understood that he holds that it would be very unwise for any action to be taken which would enable the Huns to make any efforts to "martyrize" anyone. Naturally, the opinion is unanimous that if it is possible to fix responsibility for the war and the war outrages, summary punishment should be meted out. The committee's methods of working are:

1—Decide whether premeditation was sufficient to warrant indictment.

2—Question of violation of treaty rights.

3—Violations of the rights of peoples.

4—Breaches of the laws of war.

5—Responsibilities involved.

Finally, rules will be applied to punnisments if any are decided upon.

President Wilson is well satisfied with the progress of the league of nations. The majority has agreed on the outlines, and it will be necessary to arrange legislation for what will finally be designated as the United States of the World.

What the French wish particularly to avoid is the establishment of a super-state (in the form of a league of nations) over-riding all national institutions. Particularly is this so in regard to foreign possessions. The French throughout have been urging that the league cannot be vested with territorial possessions nor administration powers. Its highest mission must be watchfulness to see that the conventions between the states are maintained. All colony owning nations, if the French viewpoint prevails, will enter into agreement with the peoples over whom they rule, undertaking to use their vested rights, to benefit their particular holdings.

President Wilson expressed the deepest appreciation of the enthusiasm in the French chamber of deputies when he made his public appearance there yesterday. The ovation was tremendous, the audience arising and demanding that Mr. Wilson ascend the Tribune. One of the features that impressed the president was the enthusiasm of a number of beautiful French women who were seated in elaborately decorated boxes. They rose from their seats and cheered Mr. Wilson with might and main.

Y FAULTS WERE NOT GENERAL

Exceptional Shortcomings Should Not Be Held Against Whole Organization Which Did Wonderfully Efficient Work—Majority Should Receive Credit as Well as Minority Receive Blame.

Editor, The Freeman:

A considerable number of friends of the Y. M. C. A. have asked me for a word concerning the criticisms of the war work rendered by the National War Work Council of the Young Men's Christian Association. At the very beginning it is well to know of the magnitude which this work attained up to the time the armistice was signed. There were over 1900 red triangle huts in the American Army in France and 1000 huts operated by the Y. M. C. A. for the French Army. In addition to this there were over 1000 buildings in the camps in the United States. In addition to this several hundred huts were in operation in England, Italy and Russia. It required 14,812 "Y" workers to operate these huts "over there" and over 3,000 in the American camps. When we stop to think of this vast number of workers it is not to be wondered at that in spite of the rigid tests which confronted prospective applicants for the "Y" work a person now and then would get through who was not only a disgrace to the red triangle but to the splendid boys who fought so well for us on the other side.

We have been accused of mismanagement and profiteering in the canteen service. The Y. M. C. A. did not wish to go into the canteen work. General Pershing practically comandeered our organization and, so we tackled a big job without receiving much support from the Quarter-master's department of the United States Army. General Pershing in his order fixed the prices at which articles should be sold. This price was based on the cost price in the United States plus tranporation and insurance. The difference in price between the "Y" canteen and the Post Exchange was due to the fact that the United States Army sold its articles at the cost price in United States and did not add to this price the items of transportation and insurance. Third Assistant Secretary of War F. P. Keppel investigated the charge of profiteering in the canteens and then made this statement: "The Young Men's Christian Association made no profit but lost thousands of dollars."

We have been accused of selling cigarettes which were given to the army by the various newspapers and patriotic organizations. Some portion of this tobacco, because cases were not sufficiently marked, were sold to the Y. M. C. A. by the Quartermaster and retailed in certain Y. M. C. A. canteens to soldiers at the price paid the Quartermaster. Later, when soldiers came to open these parcels, they found evidence that they had been intended for free distribution. In every case where these were returned to the Y. M. C. A. it furnished free an equivalent amount of tobacco from its own supplies. The Quartermaster concerned, investigated the matter and fully exonerated the Y. M. C. A.

Another criticism which has been made is that the typical attitude of the Y. M. C. A. workers has been that of "holier-than-thou" persons. This question is of special interest because the Y. M. C. A. has recently been taken to task for the very opposite of what has been implied in this criticism. The charge has been earnestly pressed by not a few that the Y. M. C. A. has been untrue to its religious traditions and has not sufficiently set forth the claims of religion upon the soldiers. When an organization or an individual is criticised with equal strength by critics holding conflicting and directly opposing views, one comes to the conclusion that after all they must be holding a fairly straight course between extremes.

In summing up I would like to quote an editorial in the New York Tribune of January 13, 1919: "There is danger that a very grave injustice will be done the Y. M. C. A. Our fighters seem to be in a grouch with it. The most human quality of youth is gossip." "If they didn't kick, they wouldn't fight," said an officer in

A GREAT ECONOMY BECAUSE OF EXTRA WEAR

"After a trip to Kilauca, the active volcano of Hawaii, my Neolin-soled shoes were the only ones not absolutely ruined. Many in our party wore hob-nailed boots," said Miss Jean P. Lane of Seattle, Washington.

The sharp jagged lava of Kilauca cuts an ordinary sole to pieces quickly. That Neolin Soles stood the test but emphasizes their toughness and durability. These qualities are built into them by a scientific process. Women—and men and children, too—who are hard on shoes should buy them with Neolin Soles. They come in many styles, and because of the extra wear they give, are a great economy.

And any repairman will re-sole your worn shoes with Neolin Soles, which are flexible and waterproof as well as long-wearing. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels, guaranteed to outwear all other heels.

BLOOMINGTON.

Bloomington, Feb. 3.—The Ladies' Aid Society will hold their regular monthly meeting in the basement of the church on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

We were all glad to have with us along with our pastor, the Rev. Mr. Hayes, from China. He gave us some fine illustrations from there, and also showed some of their embroidery which they had given him and his wife when they were coming from there.

Mrs. Sarah Livingston and niece, Miss Nellie Hornbeck, spent Thursday with Mrs. West Mowell of Greenkill Park.

Mrs. Walter Connor and daughter, Miss Ada, of Rondout, spent a few days of the past week here with her mother, Mrs. Mary Relyea, and sister, Florence, returning again to their home on Saturday.

Miss Edith Melk, who has been home for a few months, has accepted a position again in the shirt factory at Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Black and uncle, Mr. Ostrander, and Rufus LeFever, formerly of this place, but now of Kingston, called on Mr. and Mrs. Edward LeFever, on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Mary Smith, who is stopping at Kingston for the winter, spent Friday, with Mrs. Charles Rickard, and also in the evening with her nieces, Mrs. Ira Bush and sister, Edith, part of Saturday, and returned again to her home in the city on Saturday afternoon.

Miss Elsie Dauback has gone to New York city for a couple of weeks to visit relatives and friends.

Miss Florence Oakley, who visited friends in New York city for a few days, is stopping with her mother now.

Bud by Electricity.

Stray electric currents from a railroad are supposed to cause the trees on one side of a Brussels street to bud again and sometimes blossom after they once have shed their leaves every fall.

WHY NOT A POLICE INTER-CITY LEAGUE?

Local Police Department Get Whiff of Baseball in Air and Believe Newburgh and Poughkeepsie Should Help.

With summer baseball being agitated in Kingston the local police department, which numbers among its members some of the fastest baseball players of days gone by, is getting a whiff of the excitement, and will shortly take steps to organize for the season.

In past years Newburgh and Poughkeepsie have turned out some fast police baseball teams and played among themselves, but the idea is now being advanced as to why it would not be a good idea to form an inter-city baseball league among the police departments of Kingston, Newburgh and Poughkeepsie. The receipts could be turned over to the police pension funds of the three cities.

The Kingston police force are all well equipped with uniforms and baseball material, and number among its members some good players. There is no question but as an attraction among baseball fans, a game staged between Kingston and Newburgh or Poughkeepsie would draw well and a series of games could be played for championship of the department.

The local police department is waiting to see what Poughkeepsie or Newburgh think of the idea, and the Poughkeepsie and Newburgh papers are asked to make note of the suggestion of an inter-city league.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Smart Suit in Coat Blouse Style—Blouse, 2483—Skirt 2381.

Comprising Ladies' Blouse Pattern 2483, and Ladies' Skirt Pattern 2381 White linen, with checkerboard bands in black and white, is here illustrated. The design is also good for gingham, poplin, voile, satin, foulard, taffeta and shantung. The skirt is a twopiece model. The belt holds the fullness of the one-piece blouse. The skirt pattern 2381 is cut in 6 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches waist measure. It requires 2¾ yards of 44-inch material for a 24-inch size. The blouse 2483 is cut in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 44-inch material. The skirt measures about 2½ yards at the foot.

This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns, which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents FOR EACH pattern, in silver or stamps, by The Freeman pattern department. Be sure and state size.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 10 cents in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE SPRING AND SUMMER CATALOGUE, 1919, containing 550 designs of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns, a CONCISE AND COMPREHENSIVE ARTICLE ON DRESSMAKING; ALSO SOME POINTS FOR THE NEEDLE (illustrating 30 of the various, simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

Our Gifts.

As the Magi came bearing gifts, so do we also bear gifts that relieve want; gifts that are sweet and fragrant with friendship; gifts that breathe love; gifts that mean service; gifts inspired still by the star which shone over the City of David two thousand years ago. —Kate Douglas Wiggin.

HERE AND THERE ABOUT THE TOWN

The Stroller Hears There is Talk of Grooming William B. Martin for Democratic Candidate for Mayor This Fall.

"You are supposed to be up on politics" remarked the customer as he entered the barber shop "have you heard the latest?"

"It is not out yet," replied the busy barber with a grin "but what are you getting at."

I thought you may have heard the latest political dope" explained the customer.

"What is it?" queried the barber.

"They say the friends of William B. Martin are grooming him as the Democratic candidate for mayor this fall" said the customer.

"You mean the fellow who is president of the labor union?" asked the barber.

"Yep" replied the customer "that is he."

"Well he is a pretty decent sort of a chap" replied the barber "but it seems too early to talk politics yet."

"Do you think he would be elected?" asked the customer.

"It puts me in mind of a yarn I heard the other day, that question of yours" countered the barber "it seems that there was a mighty fine fellow who was being talked of as a candidate for some office or other, and two of his friends were talking about his prospects and one said that he was a white fellow.

"He certainly was very generous" replied the other.

"Did he ever treat you?" asked the other.

"Well nearly" replied the first "I and some friends were in Quig's having a cigar when he came in and said 'well boys what are we going to have———rain or snow."

CORPORATION TAX BEING DISTRIBUTED

The 1,861.08, Ulster county's share of income tax of corporations collected by the state during the first quarter ending December 31st from the new 3 per cent tax, was received from manufacturing and mercantile corporations heretofore exempt from any state tax. Up to last year this class of corporate enterprises, while theoretically assessed for personal property valuation, in actual practice almost entirely escaped through a scheme whereby they filed their certificates of incorporation in smaller rural sections of the state although conducting their business in the larger communities. The new tax remedies this and the state now does the taxing on the basis of the net earnings although the localities do not suffer because the state shares with them.

County Treasurer Schantz today alloted the $1,861.08, the county's share, as follows: City of Kingston, $953.18; Esopus, $329.34; Hurley, 61c; Marlborough, $29.37; New Paltz village, $5.85; New Paltz town, $7.59; Rochester, $11.97; Saugerties village, $215.68; Saugerties town, $243.21; Shawangunk $27.37; Wawarsing, $4.28; Woodstock, $18.60; Ellenville, $14.03.

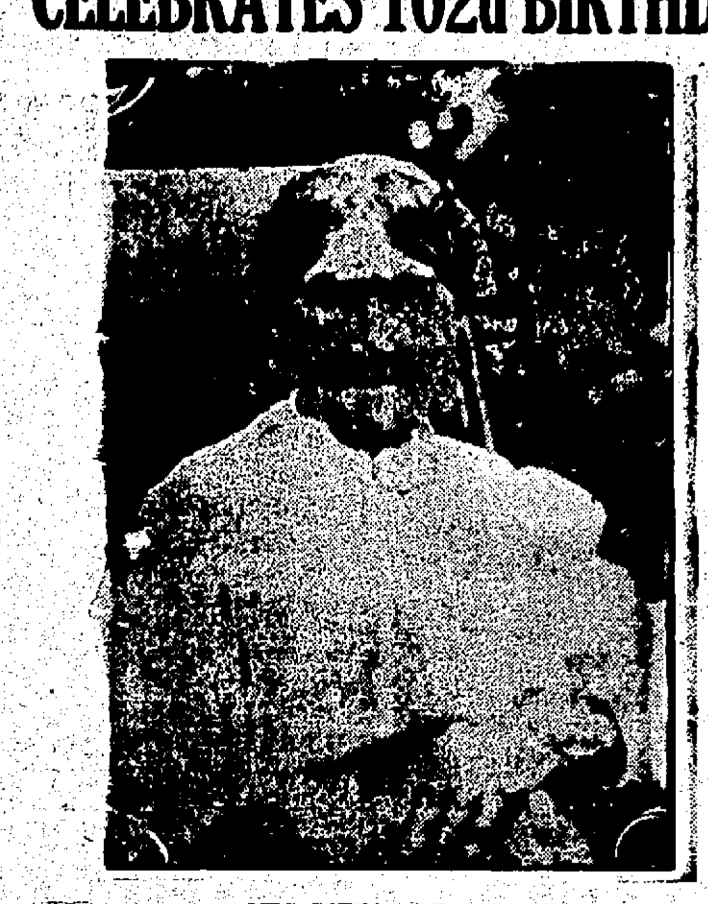
HIGHLAND CENTENARIAN CELEBRATES 102d BIRTHDAY



MRS. LYDIA LE BARRON.

Who recently celebrated her 102nd birthday anniversary at her home in Highland by giving a dinner party to several of her friends. Mrs. Le Barron is in good health and very active mentally and physically considering her age. There were four generations represented: Mrs. Le Barron, her niece, Mrs. Jennie Sherwood of Lloyd and her great-grand-niece and nephews, Miss Dorcas Denney of West Park, Warren Sherwood, Jr., of Lolyd and Daniel Stokes of Kingston, and great-great-grandniece, Ellen J. Stokes, two years of age. Mrs. Le Barron has also three great-grand nephews with the United States Army in France. Many friends and neighbors called at Mrs. Le Barron's home to extend congratulations. She greeted all with a smile and pleasant word.

BLIZZARD RAGES IN MIDDLE WEST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Blizzards sweeping over Minnesota and North Dakota are scheduled to strike Illinois late today, bringing a heavy snow and a drop in temperature of at least thirty degrees, according to predictions at the Chicago weather bureau.

Duluth, with a 46-mile gale, four inches of snow and the mercury trembling about zero, is today experiencing its first real snappy winter weather of the year.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, Feb. 4.—The Rev. C. Morton Seiple of Napanoch very acceptably occupied the pulpit of the Reformed Church Sunday morning, in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. Walter S. Maines, and there was no evening service.

There were no services at the Lutheran church on Sunday except the Sunday school session, held at the usual hour.

The Rev. John E. Jenkins of Phoenicia, N. Y., occupied the pulpit of the M. E. church on Sunday, both morning and evening, and delivered two exceptionally fine gospel sermons to large congregations, to the edification of all present. During this pastor's stay in town he was entertained by H. W. Coons and family on Center street.

The members of the Dorcas Society, to the number of twenty-six, were entertained at the home of Mrs. Ernest Sherman in Elting Court Thursday afternoon, January 30th. The ladies had for the afternoon work, the sewing for the French refugees, and following the time spent upon the sewing, the hostess served very delicious refreshments, which were enjoyed with a social intercourse.

Miss Annie Derby entertained the members and a few friends of the high school seniors at her home on Center street Friday evening. The class, which numbers about fourteen, has for its president, Vernon Kelder, of Napanoch, and for its secretary, Miss Jennie McDowell of Ellenville. The young people enjoyed a very pleasant evening with Miss Derby, with music, games and delicious refreshments, with a happy social time. The same evening the sophomores of the high school held an affair at the high school building, which was a merry time for all the young people attending.

On Friday evening, February 7th, the basketball team of the Kingston high school will come to Ellenville to play the local high school team, at Norbury Hall. Music will be furnished by Shurter's orchestra of Kingston. Dancing will follow the game. The young people are looking forward to an evening of enjoyment.

The January meeting of Wawarsing Grange No. 956, was held at the home of James A. Myers, at the Terrace Hill House, and the February meeting was held Monday evening at the home of Herbert Pierson at Leurenkill.

Napanoc Tribe, I. O. R. M., held another of their popular after council socials Friday evening. Gray's orchestra furnished music for this occasion and all attending report a fine time.

Lawrence O'Neil and brother, Edward, have returned from overseas service and are with their mother on Park street. Lawrence is now engaged in the Brooklyn navy yard.

Sergeant Norbury Terwilliger has been transferred from Fort H. G. Wright to Fort Terry New. He recently was home on a furlough.

Street Commissioner Shaffer has been laid up for several days, the result of a breast drill having slipped while he was at work on the door of the engine house, breaking a rib and bruising him to some extent.

During the past week John McDowell atended the sale of army remount horses at Goshen, where hundreds of horses were sold at auction.

The express wagon, fresh from the paint shop of C. H. Hornbeck on Liberty street, is newly painted battleship grey and lettered American Railway Express.

Mose Groat has sold his horse, wagon and harness to Steinhorn Bros. at Greenfield.

Miss Evelyn Strauser of the Holmes Brick Block store visited her friend, Mrs. W. L. Steiner, in Kingston, the past week.

The senior class of 1919 of Ellenville high school are rehearsing for a play entitled, "Polly," a comedy in three acts, to be given on the nights of February 28th and 29th. The play will be directed by Vincent Daily, who has so successfully directed plays in our high school for the last two years.

Plumber Julius Wolf has moved his family from Elm street to a cottage in Eaton Court.

At the Epworth League service at the M. E. Church, Sunday evening, the leader was Miss Elsie Devoe. The fourth of church history lectures was given by Mrs. J. E. Appley. The subject was the "Crusade Period," and was very much enjoyed to the profit of all attending. The young people of this society are having a rare treat this winter, as for late years church history has not been brought to the minds of young people as in other years, and no more important time could have been selected by this league than the present time for this important subject. "The Reformation Period" will be taken up at next Sunday's meeting.

One of the Napanoch boys, Christian Black, is now on his second voyage to France, in the Engineer's Corps of the U. S. S. Kansas. They landed at Newport News, January 30th, from Europe, having picked up on the way seventeen Frenchmen from a four-masted schooner that sprung a leak. The men had been pumping and bailing to keep afloat for three days and nights.

Boy Scouts of Troop No. 5.

All Scouts, who are members of Troop 5, are requested to bring their ice skates with them to the meeting tonight. After a short session there will be a skating party which will go to Merritt's pond and stay until about 9:30 o'clock.

JUNIOR CHOIR.

Being Organized by Evangelist Pugsley at Wurts Street Church.

There will be services at the Wurts Street Baptist Church tonight. The sermons are generally considered helpful and inspiring. Mr. Pugsley is organizing a junior choir to assist in the services which with the regular choir will make them more interesting. Everybody welcome.

Exemption Board Work.

Exemption Boards, Nos. 1 and 2, with headquarters in this city, are still in commission. The thousands of questionnaires, inside and outside the cover, are all to be numbered with a rubber stamp and all cards, papers, letters, etc., in connection with each case has to be collated and put together. It is expected that they will finally be sent to Washington, D. C., and placed in the archives of the United States government with other papers relating to this country's part in the great world war.

Lambs to Gambol.

This evening at Griffith's Hall on Hasbrouck avenue the Lambs' Gambol Club will hold a dance and Shurter's orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

"SAVING" THE SOLDIER

Did it ever occur to those zealous persons who are so busily engaged in various schemes for "saving" the soldiers that the soldiers are not permitted to have any voice in most of the various plans for their salvation? The sheer impudence of it was never better set forth than in the following editorial from The Stars and Stripes, the newspaper written and printed by and for the American Expeditionary Forces

The A E F has no collective concern with prohibition any more than it has with freight rebates, the market price of sheet steel, or the ad valorem duty on kelp imports into Patagonia

But when a news dispatch states that one explanation of the prohibition advocates' zeal since the A E F came to France is their desire to put over prohibition before the A. E. F. gets home again, then the A E F. has the right to make a collective protest For if the prohibitionists can get away with it, why cannot everybody else?

The A E F represents a very fat share of the entire electorate of the United States—the electorate that picks governors, senators and presidential electors, that instructs its representatives how it wants them to vote on minimum wage and child labor laws; that helps decide whether the home town shall be wet, dry, bone dry, absolutely dry, or, "Stranger, you simply can't get a drop in the whole place" And, in the name of common honesty, is it quite fair for prohibitionists or any body else to attempt to secure a popular vote on a decision of nation-wide import when the folks who have been fighting for that same nation are calmly, blandly, deliberately left out?

As was earlier remarked, the A E F. has no collective concern with prohibition. But it at least ought to have the chance to express its will—it ought at least to be present, if only as a guard of honor, when the water wagon begins its solemn triumphal procession along the Lincoln highway

That portion of young America comprising the more than 2,000,000 men in the A. E. F. seems to have proven pretty well able to take care of itself and to be of at least as great usefulness to the nation as any of the various lawsmiths back home Yet it is not being consulted in matters pertaining to itself and the nation It is not surprising that this is resented and it will be very surprising indeed if the resentment is forgotten by the A. E. F when it returns home Politicians and others might do well to consider this point.

A SIGNIFICANT EVENT.

An important feature of President Wilson's reception in England has failed to receive the attention it deserved: his unveiling of a copy of one of Peale's portraits of George Washington in number 10 Downing street, London. The house so numbered is said to be neither well equipped nor well lighted and it stands on a side street, but it is famed throughout the world as the official residence of the British Prime Minister and as the place where the high councils of the British Empire are held Downing street has the significance in England that Wilhelmstrasse had in Germany and about the same as attaches to our White House. That the portrait of Washington should be unveiled there by our president of these times was an event of great and far-reaching significance. With the pictured eyes of George Washington hereafter looking down on the high councils of the British Empire, it may be safely assumed that the fraternity of the two English-speaking nations is an assured and permanent thing.

It is recalled that in 1776 a prominent Englishman prophesied that the time would come when the Virginia George would be better known in history than the third British George then on the throne. This has more than come true. Even in England Washington is now better known and more venerated than George III. George V himself now probably entertains a greater respect for Washington and for Wilson than for his royal ancestor of German blood. The British people in general now respect even the cause which led Washington to revolt and which brought into being a nation destined to become the greatest of the world.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"I love the ground you walk on," he said And a little later inquired. "Does your father own this property?"—Kansas City Journal.

"Didn't the late P. T. Barnum say the public likes to be humbugged?" "Yes. But he didn't mean the way the Prussians have tried to do it"—Washington Star.

"I'm going to get a divorce. My wife hasn't spoken to me for six months." "Better be careful. You'll never get another wife like that."—Boston Transcript.

"Could you let me have a dime?" asked the beggar "I suppose," sneered the man, "you have a wife and ten children at home?" "No, mister," replied the beggar. "I am trying to raise money to pay the instalment on my Liberty Bond"—Detroit Free Press.

"When I say a thing," remarked Bliggins, "I mean it I never change my mind." "I'm mighty glad to hear it," replied the diffident friend "I remember some mighty interesting things you said about paying back ten dollars you once borrowed."—Washington Star

Barometer Said Very Dry.

A Swedish farmer, who lived in his wheat farm in Minnesota, was taken ill and his wife telephoned the doctor.

"If you have a thermometer," answered the physician, "take his temperature. I will be out and see him presently.

An hour or so later when the doctor drove up the woman met him at the door.

"How is he?" asked the doctor

"Vell," said she, "I bane put the barometer on him, like you tell me, and it say 'Very dry,' so I give him a pitcher vater to drink, and now he bane gone back to work.—Philadelphia Record.

An Unreasonable Disturber.

A lawyer was trying a case, when a young man created much disturbance by moving about the room, lifting chairs and looking under things.

"Young man," called out the judge "you are making a good deal of unnecessary noise. What are you about?"

"Your honor," replied the young man, "I've lost my overcoat and am trying to find it"

"Well, young man," said the judge, "people often lose their whole suits in here without making all that disturbance"—Exchange

The Eternal Boy.

A teacher says he critized a pupil who was late in getting to school and demanded an explanation. The boy informed him that in passing the home of his playmate he saw the boy undergoing several applications with a slipper in the hand of his playmate's mother.

"But why should that cause you to be late," asked the teacher

"Well, you see, it was this way, I wanted to hear him howl," was the reply—Chicago News.

A Serious Conflagration.

It was the day after the hod carriers' picnic and Hogan was in a bad way

"Och, murther, Honora," he groaned. "It's me insoides that's burning up intoirely!"

"D'ye think, Mike, that ye could get th' foire under control wid a bottle beer?" asked Mrs Hogan

"Oi dunno," said Hogan, "but anyway it would help to wet down the ruins."—Exchange.

PARKER CARNIVAL HERE

Decoration Day and May Secure Winter Quarters for Its Outfit.

The C W Parker Carnival Shows, with headquarters at Leavenworth Kas., will be in this city for a week, commencing Friday, May 30th, Decoration Day, a contract having been made with the Central Trade and Labor Council, under whose auspices the shows will appear The show employs 21 cars to carry its paraphernalia, and it is said that everything that goes with a first class carnival company will be seen at the Parker shows. Bert Lowe, of this city, who has been connected with the Parker organization for some time and for some time with the Kingston Opera House advertising section, will be the eastern manager of the shows, which will be given on Athletic Feild.

Arrangements are under way for the securing of the property of the William Winne estate on Hurley avenue near Snyder avenue, for eastern winter quarters for the C. W. Parker Shows. The Winne property embraces several acres of land near the O & W and U. & D Railroads, from which switches can be laid on which to run the cars used to carry the carnival about the country. At the quarters, training of animals will be done during the winter and the equipment repaired and rebuilt for the summer season to follow.

LEAVES TANK CORPS

For a Stay on the Rhine With Service of Supply.

Mrs George Bendewald of Sleightsburgh has received the following letter from her son, Private Arthur G. Bendewald:

PRIV. ARTHUR G. BENDEWALD.

Somewhere in France.
Wednesday, Dec. 25, 1918.
PRIV. ARTHUR G BENDEWALD,
Headquarter's Co. 336 Bn.,
Tank Corps,
A. P O 714,
Amer. Ex F., France.

My Dear Mother and Family:

I am well and hope this letter finds you all well and in good health. Today is Christmas and we had a good time among ourselves. We also had a fine dinner. We had a chicken dinner. We also had lots of sweet stuff and we all had a good time. I suppose there was a big time in Sleightsburgh and Kingston. I hope you all had a good time. It is quite cold here today. It snowed some but not enough to amount to anything. Tell Aunt Maggie and Uncle Elmer and the rest that I was asking for them I received my Christmas package and I was glad you sent it. I sure can use the trench cap you sent to me. The candy and chewing gum were fine, and also the cigarettes. I thank you all for my Christmas presents and wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year and many of them. I want to thank Mrs. Brown, Ida, Hannah and Arthur for the presents they sent me. It was just what I was wishing for.

Well, I will close for this time, hoping to hear from you soon. I remain as ever your loving son,

ARTHUR.

Coblenz, Germany,
Friday, Jan. 10, 1919.

Dear Mother and Family:

I am well and hope everybody at home is well. I have traveled a short distance since I sent the last letter I have been transferred from the Tank Corps to the S O S. (Service of Supplies) and I am in Germany now right in the river Rhine, and am having a good time. I hope that all at home are well and in good health

I suppose Sleightsburgh and Kingston are quite some livlier than they were a month ago on account of more of the fellows being home.

This is quite a large city where I am now I passed through quite some places before I got here. I came through some places that had been shot at and they looked quite rough where they had been hit by shells.

How are Uncle Abe, Cousin Alice and Abraham? I suppose Charles is home by this time? I hope they are all well, and also Mrs. Simon Chambers and family and Harry Lowe and family. I send best regards to them all, and tell all the rest I was asking for them and wish them all the best of luck.

How is Ada, baby, Nellie, Harry, Fred, Stella, Helen, Dave, and all well? How is old Nigger is he still alive yet? How is Cousin George and his wife? I hope they are all well. Is George Brodhead well? I had a letter from Mae and she told me her father was sick.

Well, I will close for this time, hoping this letter finds everyone at home well and in good health Give my regards to everybody in the church, from your loving son,

Y FAULTS WERE NOT GENERAL

France last summer when he reminded a "Y" secretary that his doughboys were kicking about their mail, their food, their quarters and their pay.

Before the armistice was signed we used to hear that the Y. M. C. A. was open to criticism behind the lines, but that at the front the services rendered under fire were beyond praise. One commanding officer insisted that the "Y" secretary attached to his battalion march with the men through Paris on the Fourth of July. Secretaries were mentioned in citations and were elected honorary members of outfits.

You can't very well criticise a man when he crawls out to your machine gun nest through a barrage to bring you your smokes and cookies and chocolates and letters from home. And the records show that secretaries did things like that. Many were wounded, some were killed.

The secretary in his hut back in the training area has a harder time and less opportunity to win popularity. He was a country storekeeper, a janitor, a theatrical booking agent, a promoter of athletics and a librarian rolled into one.

Formerly the criticism one heard of the Y. M. C. A. took their difficulties and differences into account, and was at least discriminating; but now it is becoming fashionable to say unpleasant things about the organization, and much of its really fine work is disregarded.

When you remember that each military unit formed its opinion of the whole Y. M. C. A. organization from one Y. M. C. A. secretary you can realize how much energy, tact and resourcefulness each of many hundreds of secretaries should have had. Unfortunately many of them didn't measure up. That was inevitable.

Perhaps the greatest fault of the Y. M. C. A. was that it assumed too many burdens. It was asked by the army to run the canteens, and it did. It was asked to organize entertainments, athletics and educational work, and it did. It was asked to send money home for the soldiers, and it did. The army called for more new secretaries, and still more. The Y. M. C. A. got them and sent them over believing that, even though all of them weren't ideal, it was better to send them than to let the landing troops be without their huts. And the troops were landing by the hundreds and thousands. The army wanted one secretary for each unit of five hundred men. But with the number of men in the army and the number engaged in jobs which they couldn't leave at home, the goal was never reached. Ask the men who were without "Y" service part of the time. They will tell you what it meant. They are the ones who realize best what our army's life would have been without this organization. The Y. M. C. A. assumed the prosaic, useful jobs. There was little picturesqueness in its work. There were weeks and months of gruelling labor—in warehouses, for instance.

To dismiss with a thoughtless, uninformed word the efforts of an organization which has earnestly tried to do its best is not fair play. One hears the work of the Y. M. C. A. contrasted unfavorably with that of the Red Cross. There is a sentimental reason, perhaps, for that. The basic appeal of the Red Cross is that it helps the helpless. The Y. M. C. A. dealt with whole men. That was the understood division of work between the two organizations. Soldiers who say they didn't see a Y. M. C. A. man or woman from the time they were wounded until they reached home, do not realize the reason. And they don't realize how much they hurt the Y. M. C. A. when they make criticisms which seem to indicate a lack of human sympathy.

When a man says the Y. M. C. A. sold dear merchandise he doesn't realize that the canteen system, supplanting the Post Exchange run by the military authorities in other wars, was run by the "Y", by request, with funds separate from those raised for the regular work of building and manning huts, transporting supplies and furnishing athletics, educational work and entertainment. He doesn't remember,—if he ever knew, that supplies were given away under fire."

In conclusion there follows certain questions in which all clear thinking people are interested:

If the "Y" has been as unpopular as represented by critics, why do the leading military and naval authorities continue their enthusiastic and unqualified endorsement of the "Y" red triangle service?

If the Y. M. C. A. has charged the excessive prices for articles sold in their canteens, as claimed, would not the government have removed the canteen from the "Y" management?

If at least three-fourths of "Y" work was efficient and appreciated by enlisted men, why is comment by many confined to criticism of one-fourth, with no commendation for the three-quarters?

Which is on trial, the "Y" work overseas or its critics?

Yours for fair play,
F. L. THORNBERRY,
General Secretary,

SOCIETY NOTES.

A very pleasant surprise was tendered to Gottfried Thurin in honor of his birthday Saturday evening at his home, 129 Jansen avenue. Solo selections were rendered by Messrs. John Reis, Leon Martin and Charles Thurin. Dancing and games were enjoyed and supper was served at midnight. All departed in the wee small hours of the morning, wishing Mr. Thurin many more happy birthdays. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John Reis, Mr. and Mrs. John Bechtold and son, Cornelius, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tierney and son, John, Mrs. Patrick McDonough and Mr. and Mrs. Gottfried Thurin, the Misses Mary McAndrew, Catherine and Clara Reis, Helen and Anne Reis, Elizabeth McDonough and Florence and Frieda Thurin, Messrs. Leon Martin, Richard Reis, Paul Sass, Jake Verdon, Joe Robb, Nicholas Reis and Charles, Harry and Fred Thurin.

Olympian Club.

The Olympian Club met on Monday evening with Miss Lucy Healy at her home on O'Neil street. Following the regular French lesson, Miss Risely gave the book review for the week, Sherwood's "The Worn Doorstep." The next meeting of the club will be with Miss Burt at her residence on Maiden Lane.

D. A. R. Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., will be held at the chapter house on Thursday afternoon of this week, at three o'clock. The local board will meet at 2 o'clock. The program for the afternoon will be in charge of Mrs. Louis Basten and Mrs. Fred Gallagher. The hostesses will be Mrs. T. D. Lewis and Mrs. Fesenden.

Monday Club.

The Monday Club was entertained by Mrs. A. V. V. Kenyon this week. Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler had the paper for the day. The subject, "A Japanese Home," was presented in a most interesting and entertaining manner by Mrs. Fowler. The club members were privileged to listen to the reading of a letter from the son of Mrs. Saare of Yama Farms Inn, who is in the French Artillery. There was an informal and brief discussion of a subject for study next year. Mrs. Michael will be the hostess for the club next week.

Mendelssohn Club.

Owing to the war the Mendelssohn Club, Kingston's favorite singing organization, did not give a concert last year, some of the members being in service and others engaged in war work at home but plans were discussed at a meeting held Monday evening of members, to give one this year that will surpass the best of others if that be possible. The meeting which was largely attended, was held at Symphony Hall, in the Crosby building, Wall and John streets, and the greatest of interest was manifested by those present. Several new members joined, three being tenors. Harry P. Dodge was selected as director, and Emil F. Kuehn accompanist. The officers elected were Frederick G. Traver, president; Dr. A. L. Hill, vice-president; Dr. C. H. Bishop, secretary; Ward B. Everett, treasurer.

Soikanishade Club.

This week's meeting of the Soikanishade Club was held with Mrs. Lorraine Wood at her home on Highland avenue. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Leighton, the vice-president, Mrs. Rice, presided. The roll call consisted of a discussion on Kingston as compared to others in the matters of civics. Mrs. G. F. Rice had the paper for the day, giving a fine exposition of her subject "King Lear." The story of King Lear and his three remarkable daughters is one of the oldest in English literature. This tale and its main plot is largely interwoven in all the popular literature of Great Britain. The paper showed all this and also the fact that the play is not historic but a tragedy. Readings which Mrs. Rice gave in connection with her paper added to its clearness and interest. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Rice at her home on Downs street.

Luckenbach-Fenwick.

Miss Andrea Marie Fenwick, daughter of the late Andrew Allen Fenwick, and a niece of the late James Fenwick of Parkdale, Toronto, was married Friday, January 31st, to Edgar Frederick Luckenbach of New York city and Great Neck, L. I., in a private suite of the Ritz-Carlton. The Rev. James M. Farrar of the First Reformed Church, Brooklyn, performed the ceremony in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends. The bride, who was given away by Captain C. H. Robbins, an old friend of her family, wore a costume of pearl gray satin and a hat to correspond and carried a large bouquet of mauve orchids and lilies of the valley. There were no bridal attendants or best man. A wedding breakfast followed. Mr. Luckenbach is president of the Luckenbach Steamship Company, 44 Whitehall street, and has a number of relatives in this city.

ABOUT THE FOLKS.

Mr. and Mrs. Schipp and son, Louis, of White Plains, have been spending a week with Mr. Schipp's brother in this city.

George W. Dumond, county sealer, who has been very ill for a long time, is considerably improved and was able to be out for a short time Monday.

Charles A. Hungerford, of the Eagle Hotel, and C. K. Loughran, Ulster county clerk, returned last night from their trip south and to Cuba. They report an enjoyable time. While in Havana they saw Charles A. Dunn, of Clinton avenue, this city, who spends his winters in Cuba, and he introduced them and Charles A. Warren, who was with them, to the prominent men of Havana and escorted them to points of interest. The party were guests of Mr. Dunn at an elaborate dinner. While they saw some very fast horses in running races they fail to remember the name of any winner.

WALTON WOULD RESTORECONVENTION

Kingston Senator and Syracuse Assemblyman to Introduce Bill Bringing Back Party Council for State and Judicial Officers.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 4.—A strong move has been started in the legislature to restore the state convention system for the nomination of state and judicial officers, and a bill to effect this will be introduced tomorrow by Senator Charles W. Walton of Kingston and Assemblyman George Faron of Syracuse.

The bill will follow the general lines of a measure offered the senate last year by a special primary committee headed by former Senator Charles D. Newton, now the attorney general. It is understood that the measure will have the backing of Democrats as well as the Republicans, and is almost certain of passage.

The primary purpose of the bill is to restore a means of party council each two years at which the sentiment of a party may be crystallized into a party platform. The main opposition to the present system is direct primaries has been this lack of an official convention where a party's will might be heard on important pending questions.

The direct primary method of nomination of all officers other than state and judicial officers is to be retained and the delegates to the proposed state conventions are to be selected at primaries, under the terms of the bill.

BILL TO DISSOLVE BIFTON VILLAGE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Feb. 4 (Special to The Freeman)—A bill dissolving the village of Rifton, Ulster county, has been introduced by Senator Walton. The measure was introduced because the population has fallen off very materially since the dismantling of the Rifton carpet mills. The population at the present time is about 175, having fallen to this number from 745 when the last census was taken in 1910.

No industries have arisen in Rifton to take the place of the carpet works to furnish employment and to aid the finances of the village and as against this disadvantage, the rate of taxation has greatly increased. Moreover the inhabitants still remaining there are unanimous in their desire to have the village dissolve as a corporation. The Walton bill provides that within ninety days after the enactment of the law the proposition to dissolve be submitted in the form of a referendum. If endorsed by a two-thirds vote it shall prevail. A companion bill to make the dissolution effective after a single election instead of two succeeding ones, and thus shortening the time for the taking effect of the law was also introduced by Senator Walton.

DuBois did not know Ennis or did not notice him at work that afternoon and stated that he was not acquainted with any of the day force on duty at that titme. He did not notice Peter Schatzel standing in the doorway at the time that he saw the tray fall. He saw George Styles at the hospital after the accident.

Just when Coroner Kelly was about to close the hearing in the inquest, Jacob Best, of Esopus, who had been subpoenaed last week, but who had been unable to appear, owing to illness, made his presence in court known to the coroner, and he was placed on the witness stand. His testimony was such that Coroner Kelly adjourned the hearing until Thursday, February 13, when no doubt further witnesses will be called and questioned.

Proper Care of Cellar.

Cellars will acquire a musty odor after being closed for some time. To remove dampness as well as to disinfect the cellar, sprinkle chloride of lime on the floor and close up the cellar for a few days. Then open the windows and let in the air until the chloride of lime odor disappears and your cellar will be ready for storing vegetables.

Diogenes Knew.

Diogenes held his lantern before the face of a woman. It was Christmas morning and she was remarking: "How darling! It was just what I wanted!" Whereat, the old fellow shook his head in despair and passed on. "She is counting at this very moment," mused Diog, "on what she can exchange it for."

VICTORY LOAN PATRIOTIC TEST

Coming Issue of Liberty Bonds Will Probably Be Last Call on People.

WAR DEBTS MUST BE PAID.

Support of the Fifth Call Will Prove One Hundred Per Cent. Americanism.

America's last call for war bond buyers will be sounded soon. This time it is the Victory Loan, to approximate five billions of dollars. The campaign is to be conducted along the same line as the previous loan campaigns—appealing to patriotism and thrift.

Triumphant America, flushed with the victory of her armies at Chateau-Thierry, St. Mihiel and Sedan, must now pay in full the debts she incurred to gain her laurels. One hundred per cent Americans will see in the Victory Loan another and probably the final opportunity to participate in the achievement of the men of the Army and the Navy.

We—all of us—cannot disregard the appeal of the Victory Loan. It is the last testing of our caliber and power as a nation. To neglect it is to throw into the discard all our previous patriotic utterances and acts—to acknowledge that we lack the final punch required to put over the biggest thing in which a nation ever engaged.

The United States went into the war at a time when the nations with which it fought as common allies had almost all virtually exhausted their supplies. Our presence in the conflict called for the raising, equipment and transportation to France of the most impressive army ever sent overseas. While machine guns and artillery were sending up in smoke a kingly ransom every second of day and night, Liberty Bonds were sold in this country. The issues enabled us to maintain Pershing's Army in France. At the same time another host of warriors was raised, equipped and kept in the training camps for shipment abroad if necessary. Those in France struck at the right moment. The war was won—but we still have an army of one million men in France. The flow of demobilizing units to America continues.

Money is needed to maintain one army, to discharge another, to pay war debts. A nation's coffers are inexhaustible only as long as its citizens support its financial policy. The final expression of our patriotism will be to support the Victory Loan.

Water Protects Coal.

An interesting result of recent experiments with coal is the demonstration of the benefits of submerging the mineral in water. Coal deteriorates in the air, and there is the danger of spontaneous combustion, while when submerged not only was the fire danger eliminated, but scarcely any deterioration was shown. Experimentally, coal kept in the air showed from 2 to 10 per cent of loss in nine months, while when submerged there was scarcely any loss at all.

WHERE AMERICA WAS NAMED

House Is Still Standing in Which Learned Men Awarded Voyager an Undeserved Honor.

Many readers who keep scrap-books will be glad of this morsel of curious lore.

On April 25, 1507, the learned heads of the University of St. Die, in Lorraine, decided, incorrectly, that Amerigo Vespucci was entitled to the honor of discovery, Christopher Columbus having only reached the islands of the West Indies, and that the western hemisphere should bear his name. The name "America" was, as a matter of fact, first used in the book "Cosmographiae Introductio," by Martin Waldseemuller, professor of cosmography at the university.

It has since been shown that Amerigo Vespucci was preceded by both Christopher Columbus and John Cabot, but it was too late—the new world had been dubbed "America," and the fact advertised in print. The house where the meeting was held at which the classical error was made still stands at St. Die (Vosges), and is annually visited by many tourists, especially those from both North and South America.

Hence the error of learned men is responsible for America being named after Amerigo Vespucci, who was given an honor he clearly did not deserve.

Rule for Verse Writers.

Free verse, says a critic, is only a new way of printing rhythmic prose, such as that found in the Bible and in the serious writings of Thomas Brown and Robert Bacon. And as for printing it in verse form, William Blake produced verse whose effect to the eye is much the same as that of the most modern "vers librist." In some modern cases, however, it looks very much as if the poet were experimenting with the advice of Voltaire, who said to Helvetius: "Do you wish an infallible rule for verse? Here it is: See if your thought, as you have written it in verse, is beautiful in prose also."

Every Little Helps.

Italy makes excellent use of her waste paper. It is made into a cheap and portable fuel for the soldiers.

Boys and girls go about the cities collecting all the discarded newspapers they can find. These are brought to establishments where the sheets are converted by machinery into little tight rolls about an inch in diameter and two inches long, which are packed into small bags and dispatched to the army.

This compressed paper fuel is most convenient whenever an individual soldier wishes to warm up a mugful of soup or coffee.

At a Guess.

An instructor in workshop arithmetic, etc., to would-be air mechanics at a large camp in England writes to say that the lack of knowledge of the most elementary arithmetic displayed by some of his charges is astounding.

As a typical instance, he relates that he had no little trouble in convincing one young man that there were 100 hundredths in an inch. He next asked his pupil how many thousandths he reckoned there would be in an inch. After gazing long and earnestly at his ruler, the youth answered:

"Blimey! There must be millions of 'em!"

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

ABUSED PENCIL.

"A boy named Gerald," said Daddy, "was finding it very hard to do his lessons. School had commenced and yet the days were so lovely it was hard to study.

"There had been such a long and glorious summer too when studying had not been thought of, and now playing was so much easier to think about.

"It was afternoon and Gerald was sitting on the back-porch of his home studying. He liked the front porch better as there was so much more to be seen there. People passed by on their way to the post office and boys who were playing baseball or who were going for a walk in the woods.

"But he had known if he had sat there he would not have been able to say 'No,' if he had been asked to join a walking party.

"So very sensibly he was sitting on the back porch. In front of him was a table and upon the table were his books and his box of pencils.

"He could not draw a map and he was supposed to have one drawn for the next day. He found it so hard to remember just how the places looked on the map and he was supposed to do it from memory.

"He gave up trying the map after a few moments. Then he sat and chewed the end of his pencil. Perhaps in a moment or two he would think of all the places he was suppose to mark.

"He decided he would do his arithmetic but he could not manage the sums. They were all so extremely hard. Much worse than they had been in the spring, though in reality they were a little easier. The teacher had known the children had had a long summer and it would take them a little time to get back into their work.

"He tried to do the sums but couldn't. What a pity the book had no answers in the back! And he began to chew the end of his pencil again while he tried to think.

"Before long he felt he could not do his lessons for he was too tired and they were entirely too hard. He was dreadfully afraid he would be put back with the boys a year younger than he was, and yet he couldn't do such difficult lessons.

"Gracious, Pencil, What Is the Matter?"

"How ashamed he would be to be put back! Oh dear, what could he do? He must simply tell the teacher the lessons were too hard. But then he felt sure she would tell him to go back into a class where they were easier.

"He put his head down on his arms. The soft autumn breeze was blowing. It had been a warm day and two bumble bees were buzzing and talking very near him. They were having some sort of a talk about the sweetness of the honey in the honeysuckle vine.

"Just then he saw his pencil. The end of it was wrapped up in cotton wool and gauze.

"'Gracious pencil, what is the matter?' asked Gerald.

"'I shouldn't think you would ask me what was the matter,' said the pencil as it squeaked in a sad little voice.

"'Why not?' asked Gerald. But the moment he had asked the question he knew the answer.

"The pencil answered him just the same. 'You think I am to do your work. I will work but I must be guided and directed. I cannot think. A pencil is not supposed to think. A boy is supposed to do that. I merely write down what you think is correct, and goodness only knows I often feel very badly when I have to write down all sorts of wrong answers.

"'And when I won't think for you,' continued the pencil, 'this is the way you abuse me. Think! Don't bite me to pieces. And I'll tell you another thing. You may bite me in two, but never, never will I do your thinking for you. I am not supposed to and I won't.' The pencil was certainly very decided, Gerald thought, and he thought he would not argue with it.

"'I was a lovely red pencil with black lead,' the pencil continued, in an injured tone, 'and now I am all bitten to pieces. One of my ends is almost useless, and I will break when the lead is used very much further. Oh dear! And I was such a nice pencil!' It sighed and seemed very mournful.

"Just at that moment the cotton wool came off the pencil and Gerald saw that he had been sleeping. The pencil had been badly bitten, but Gerald, now wide awake, put his mind to his studying, and found the lessons were not so hard after all!"

Origin of Apple Dumplings.

A dumpling is a good old English dish and comes from the word dumpen, that meant to throw down suddenly and the diminutive ending ling. The idea was a little cake that was made by throwing raw rough dough into boiling water.

GERMAN ATTEMPTS TO FRATERNIZE

Met With Cold Reception After Armistice—Letter From 27th Division Man Who Was Gassed As War Ended.

The following interesting letter has just been received from Harold E. Depew, formerly of Kingston, and a member of St. John's Church, this city, now a member of the 27th Division, who wrote from a hospital in France:

Jan. 13, 1918.

Dear Mrs. Reed:

It just came me to that I ought to write you a letter, you being the only person from the church whose address I know. At present I am getting along fine, but that's not saying about the past.

I've seen my share of war and am anxious now to get home. Not that I am sorry I came over here, for I wouldn't sell my experiences I've had over here for a million.

I did not see any fighting for the first three months, but the last three have been much different. I lasted everything through until four days before the armistice was signed, when I with a few others who were on a ration party were surprised by one of Jerry's gas shells and I took more whiffs than was good for me and it finished me for a while.

Because of some mistake I was held at a A. D. S. (Advanced Dressing Station) until two days after the armistice was signed. I am glad in one way for 'twas then the fun came in. I cannot describe all to you for it is impossible, but if I was asked once in German, if I knew someone, I was asked twenty times. The Huns came over and asked for certain men by name. They must have been acquainted with a few Americans and were anxious to locate them. But I knew no one they asked for. It was comical yet sorrowful to see a Yank start for a Jerry, then stop and turn back, and he wasn't smiling when he started either.

I just cannot tell you all.

Two days after the armistice was signed I was sent back to a real hospital. I suppose they are all real, but in this one we had feather beds, white sheets and "beaucoup" eats and last but not least a real honest-to-goodness American girl. You may talk about the beauty in French girls but when you have an American one wake you up in the morning to take temperature and hold your hand (for pulse I mean) its like being home.

I met one of the Maines boys in Roisl. I was on my way to the front then. A few days later my division, (27th) was relieved but we stayed with the British and Australians and a regiment of Yanks.

But now its all over and our division is awaiting orders to move and I do not believe it will be very long before we will be homeward bound. Some say we may leave this month, but it sounds too good to be true. I'm ready any time they ask.

If you ever see any people I know remember me to them and tell them that the St. John's boys were there when the time came.

Sincerely,

(Signed) HAROLD E. DEPEW.

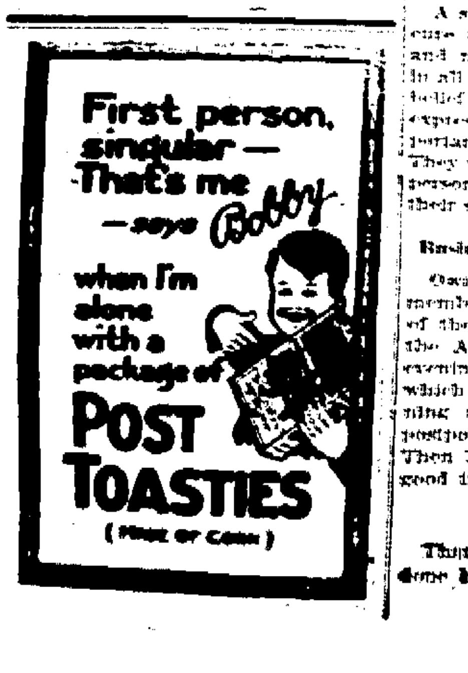
Changes in Real Estate.

William L. Shutts of 154 Ten Broeck avenue, has purchased the large farm of Robert Sheppard in Saugerties through the Paradies real estate agency and will take possession shortly. The same agency has consummated the sale of the farm of Charles Harms of New Paltz, which has been purchased by Lewis A. and Marceline Payne of Brooklyn. Mr. and Mrs. Payne have been summering for many years in New Paltz. Mr. and Mrs. Harms will reside in the future in Kingston.

Vain Pursuit.

"So Niblitz is dead?" "Yes." "Did he leave any property?" "Nothing to speak of. Niblitz was the kind of man who had an idea that fortune was always just around the corner." "But he never succeeded in overtaking her?" "No. He has either mistaken in the location of the corner or he lingered in the middle of the block until fortune moved on to some other corner."—Birmingham Age-Herald.



SHELL SHOCKED PEN AND SACK FOR DESK

While the Gang Plans Its Future at Home—McCutcheon Writes Under Difficulties of the Hot Finish of the War.

John P. McCutcheon, a former employe of one of the local boatyards, now cook for the Headquarters Co., 320th Field Artillery, writes of the close of the war as follows:

Bussieres, Belmont, France,
Dec. 20, 1918.

Dear Sir:

I now take great pleasure in writing you these few lines to let you know that I received your most welcome letter and photographs of the yard and I sure was glad to hear from the old yard. I am glad to see how things changed since I left for over here.

Well, sir, when I get back I will be able to tell you more about this war than I can write, for I sure did see some excitement and we sure did give them some, too. The night of November 11th, 1918, at 1 o'clock everything went off like one big gun. You could not hear yourself talk. You would think h—— broke loose. Oh, boy! Some noise!

Well, sir, before November 11th we started a bombardment and captured a small town called Neoroy, then we were relieved by the French artillery, and we went from there to the Toul sector. We fired a few rounds of iron rations on Metz, then we went to the Argonne Forest. Oh, boy! Some fighting! That's where I thought the world came to an end. I sure did think John P. McCutcheon would never see Kingston again. I never saw so many Jerries in all my life and so many prisoners.

Well, the war is over now, and everything is all right. I am in the best of health. But this pen is shell-shocked and I am trying to make this letter look good by writing on a blanket stretched across an old potato barrel, so please excuse all writing an misspelled words, for there is a gang in the kitchen that is planning what they will do when they get home.

Well, sir, as I have no news to write now, I think I will close with my best regards to you and all the boys on the yard. They sure did great work, and when I come home I will tell them how much we appreciated it, for we never was without fresh beef one day while we were in action. I remain as ever,

START EXPRESS SHIPMENTS RIGHT

Nation Wide Campaign Starts Feb. 10 to Eliminate Waste and Loss—Common Errors.

Plans of a most comprehensive nature to bring about conditions that will make possible a marked improvement in the express service throughout the country, were announced last Friday by E. M. Houghtaling, local representative of the American Railway Express Company. A "Better Service Campaign" will be undertaken by the 135,000 men and women employed in the express business, for the purpose of raising the standards of packing, wrapping and marking express shipments.

The better service drive will start on February 10 in every city and town in the country, and its chief purpose is to check, once and for all, the waste of time, effort and money that result from lost or damaged shipments. It is a source of dissatisfaction any annoyance to both shippers and the carriers and tends to impair the express service.

A determined effort will be made during the campaign to eradicate what is known as the "No Mark" evil. From July 1st to November 30th of last year, 127,859 shipments, an average of about 25,500 a month, were turned to the "No Mark" bureaus maintained by the company, because all means of identification of either shippers or consignees had been lost, and the delivery, except in a few cases, made impossible. The use of tags at all is discouraged by the expressmen, but where it is absolutely necessary, shippers are urged never to use less than two. With personal baggage sent by express it is wise to enclose the name and address of the shipper, in case further identification is necessary.

Another cause of damage to or loss of shipments in transit is the use of a poor quality of wrapping paper and twine, or an insufficient quantity of good paper. Old or second hand cartons and other containers which carry several old marks, are found to be responsible for many shipments being damaged, wrongly delivered or going astray. Old marks on baggage have sent many trunks and suit cases to the wrong destination.

A special effort will be made to secure the help of business executives and managers of the large concerns in all the trades and industries, in the belief that the proper preparation of express shipment is a matter of importance to every successful business. They will be asked to give the subject personal attention and to look into their shipping departments.

Business Men's Meeting Postponed.

KINGSTON MEN PURCHASE GARAGE

A. C. Miller and Frank Schonger of This City New Owners of Arcadia Garage at Kerhonkson.

The Arcadia Garage at Kerhonkson, owned and conducted for several years by John Van Kleeck and known to tourists as the largest and most modernly equipped garage and repair station between Kingston and Ellenville on the main state road, has been purchased by A. C. Miller and Frank Schonger, both expert automobile men of this city. The new proprietors will take possession immediately and the garage will be known under the new management as the Arcadia Garage Incorporated. Both of these young men are well known and they will maintain the reputation of this famous garage with prompt attention to all kinds of repair work and supplies.

Aside from taking care of the large tourist work at this convenient location, Messrs. Miller and Schonger will carry the agencies for the popular Buick car, Chevrolet and Star motor tractors and at the same time will maintain an extensive line of the best accessories to be obtained. Tires will be another specialty completing a stock that would be hard to equal anywhere for the satisfaction of the motor world. The garage is equipped with drill presses, lathes and air compressors, affording the tourist repairs that will meet his approval. The building, which has a measurement of 190x103 feet, is situated directly opposite the famous Indian Valley Inn at Kerhonkson and is recognized as one of the best sites in the Catskill mountain summer resorts.

A. C. Miller is one of the best known automobile salesmen in Ulster county, having been in the employ of the Kingston Taxi Company for several years as a salesman and later with the Van Benschoten Branch on Broadway, and it is doubtful if any man is so familiar with the needs of the auto owners as is Mr. Miller. Previous to his success as a Kingstonian he was an expert factory man in the same line of business. Frank Schonger has been in the employ of James O. Winston for the past nine years and is one of the most popular young automobile men in Kingston and his success with Mr. Miller is looked for by his many friends in this city. Both of the new owners will reside in Kerhonkson after their return from the automobile show now on in New York city, which they are attending.

Noyes at First Dutch Church.

The invitation lecture to be given under the management of the women's literary clubs of the city, by Alfred Noyes, former poet laureate of England, and now professor at Princeton, will be at the First Dutch Church instead of the high school as originally announced. The lecture will be at 8 o'clock on Friday evening of this week.

Life's Minor Worries.

Frequently a woman worries a great deal over the question of calling on another woman who doesn't care in the least whether she calls or not.—Boston Transcript.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the many friends for their sympathy and many acts of kindness in our recent bereavement in the loss of our dear mother, Mrs. C. R. Schoonmaker, and for the many beautiful floral tributes.

We couldn't make the Maxwell any better; so we made it better looking

AN artist never frames his masterpiece until he finishes it.

So the new Maxwell, a completed work, is now robed in new garments.

They do not make it run any better. They make it look better.

Mr. Whistler, himself, were he here today and saw a new Maxwell pass on the street, would probably give it a second look.

A little touch here, the straightening of a line there, the bringing of a fender a little closer to the wheel, a circassian walnut dash before you as you sit at the wheel, the strength lent by putting the gas tank in the rear, the multiplication of bonnet vents, the adding of three more painting coats, the increased thickness of the seat cushions—these, though but a few of the many changes made,—show the tendency of the new beauty.

It is in the sum of many little things that the full story is told.

The car was first checked off in squares, as a doctor sometimes marks off a man's chest and back to test every square inch of the lungs.

And there was an improvement made in nearly every square.

When the task was done it looked like a different Maxwell.

But it wasn't.

It was the same, sound, go-get-there chassis built to stand the gaff of rough and ready driving, built to endure, to "stay put," to stand all the erratic moods of the careless driver.

It was a five year drive to reach this present peak of Maxwell efficiency. But the engineers, and the manufacturing men knew that building a chassis without fundamental change in design year after year would ultimately tell in results. For every one knows that doing one thing results in doing it well.

So in five years 300,000 Maxwells have come forth, all built on the original chassis plan—each new one better than the last.

There is no self-starting automobile in the world that has such a manufacturing record.

Think what it means to a man who owns one:

He has not paid for a false overhead.

He has not paid for manufacturing mistakes.

He has not paid for experimental work.

He has not paid for the changes of mind of another man.

Today you get a better Maxwell than any of the 300,000, and a better looking Maxwell. It is a finished work, a completed task, a thing well done.

You run no risk—and when you cast your eyes on it you are tempted to feel that the price might easily be $200 more.

KEPT HIM AWAKE; KILLED HIS SON

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 4.—Edward Lawton, 25, was arraigned in local police court this morning charged with murder, first degree, for breaking his neck of his two months old son, because the child kept him awake nights by crying.

On his arraignment, Lawton calmly told the judge he was guilty of killing his son and added that he had committed the crime because his wife refused to stay home and take care of the baby. The child, he said, was sickly and he wanted to put him out of his misery He was held for the grand jury

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 4.—There was an entire absence of selling orders in the stock market this morning The demand was urgent chiefly from shorts, causing advances all through the list of from fractions to 2 points in the initial trading Steel Common moved up ⅝ to 90⅞, the highest price since the dividend reduction Other steel shares made about the same gain, Baldwin advancing ⅝ to 67¾. The motors reflected persistent buying by strong interests, General Motors advancing to 130½ and Studebaker gained ⅝ to 51⅝. Chandler moved up 2 points to 117. Hide and Leather issues were strong, with the Preferred up 1½ to 89⅝, the highest price for this movement. Mexican Petroleum advanced 2¼ to 168⅞. International Nickel advanced ⅝ to 26½.

The vigorous buying movement which was a feature of the early dealings brought in a large volume of selling orders causing many reactions during the late forenoon. Steel Common, after selling up to 91, reacted to 90½ and fractional recessions occurred in the other steel issues Marine Preferred, after moving up to 97⅝, reacted to 96⅝, while the railroad issues were extremely quiet Chandler Motor, after moving up 3 points to 118, dropped to 116 and General Motors fell 1 point to 129½.

The market closed steady; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds steady

ANCIENT OLD TRADING POST

About Fort Smith There Seems to Gather All the Romance of the "Silent Places."

Of all the glamorous old trading posts of the Honorable Hudson Bay company, there is none with more of the romance of the silent places about it than Fort Smith, perched above the Rapids of the Drowned on the Slave river, writes "Niksah" in the Chicago Daily News. The Slave flows here from Lake Athabasca to Great Slave lake, and half-way on its journey, just where the sixtieth parallel of north latitude divides the province of Alberta from the Northwest Territory, it passes Fort Smith.

The fort is set high above the troubled waters several hundred feet up the steep, rocky bank. A fine spot for defense it was, in the early days, but now that attacks are over it is an inconvenient location in spite of its picturesque qualities. All day long you can see those who are in the biblical phrase "drawers of water" toiling up the steep path with yoked buckets over their shoulders—Indian women and children, servants of the company, carrying every drop that is drunk, and whatever may be used for other purposes. It is no discredit to wash sparingly in Fort Smith. One must needs have scant consideration for the value of human labor to do otherwise.

All about the trading post are scattered the tepees of the Indians, wanderers of the great woods, on their annual trading expedition. They bring with them the breath of the vast woods country; its struggle has shaped their tight-lipped mouths, its loneliness has made their steady black eyes inscrutable; its mystery has made their laugh a low, quick bitten thing, like a laugh snatched in the shadow of terror. All these things the white woodsmen show even more strongly, with the quicker impressionability of finer clay. The northern woods runner is a man apart, almost a separate species of the human animal, shaped by the relentless pressure of an irresistible environment.

Christmas Box Nuisance.

The Christmas box was at one time greatly in evidence—so much in evidence that it finally became an intolerable nuisance, and the people rose up in rebellion against it. At Christmas time hordes of boys and journeymen and apprentices crowded the shops and ran about the streets in certain parts of England begging coins for the small boxes they carried. One can readily imagine how much of a nuisance the boy might make himself under such circumstances.

Japanese Idea of Music.

Among the Japanese especially, a directly divine origin is attributed to music. The mythical legend runs that the art was invented by the gods to appease the anger of the sun goddess and to induce her to shine once more upon the earth and upon the other divinities. The melodies which resulted were potent to prevail upon her, and thus was light restored to the world and music and dancing were given for its delight.

Soya Bean Oil Production.

Soya bean oil, which originates principally in Manchuria, is almost entirely controlled by Japanese. The supply of beans last year was very large and the amount of oil turned out was limited only by the capacity of mills A number of large new plants were started both in Manchuria and Japan and most of the already established mills increased their capacity.

Wasting Light.

A lighting expert says that about $200,000,000 worth of light is wasted every year in this country through failure to keep windows, globes, reflectors and other light sources free from dust and dirt. The lighting bill for the nation is about $500,000,000, and if this expert is right, we are wasting two-fifths of this.

EULOGY OF SIMON JACOB NAGELE

By Pastor Schmidtkonz at Funeral of Soldier Who Died at Camp McClellan of Pneumonia—Four Stars in Service Flag.

The funeral of Simon Jacob Nagele was held Sunday afternoon at the Spring Street German Lutheran Church and was largely attended. The dead soldier in khaki rested in a flag-draped casket before the altar of the church in the presence of a guard of honor from Company M, which, together with the Barmann Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps, whose drums were muffled, accompanied the body to the cemetery. The interment took place at Wiltwyck Cemetery with military honors. At the service in the church the Rev. A. Schmidtkonz delivered the following eulogistic address, which made a deep impression:

When a man becomes a soldier of his nation he gives up all other business, ceases to serve all other masters and puts himself in the hands of his government to do as it may command. There is no life more unselfish than a soldier's life. He lives for others. His calling is to defend the nation against its foes. In truth he lays himself on the altar of his country, ready to sacrifice his life, if necessary, for his country's defense. There is no nobler honor in this world, apart from that of being a Christian, than to be a faithful soldier.

We are again called to mourn the death of one of our brave soldier boys and the service flag of our church has now four golden stars in memory of four of our sons who served their country and passed away and entered the land of lasting peace, in which shall be

No rude alarm or raging foes.
No cares to break the last repose.

Simon Jacob Nagele, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nagele, was born on March 25, 1897, and was baptized and confirmed in our church. He left home last August and entered the military service. He was a member of Battalion F, 36th Regiment, Field Artillery, at Camp McClellan, Alabama. He was a well liked young man and a true soldier, who served his country cheerfully. The memory he leaves will long be treasured by those who knew and loved him. He died of pneumonia last Sunday and his body was brought home last Friday by Comrade Robert Nolte.

A touching and effective tribute to his memory is the following letter of condolence written by the buglers of his regiment to his parents: "It is because we deeply deplore the loss of your son as a comrade and friend that urges us to write. We, the buglers of the same regiment, have been very closely associated with him and all count him more of a brother to us than a comrade. You have offered a son to your country and in this service for his country and all humanity he has made the supreme sacrifice. It is therefore with the deepest sympathy and sorrow we offer the condolence that we can. Very respectfully, the buglers of the 36th Regiment."

Dear mourners, dark shadows are resting upon your home. It does seem as if the weight of heaven had fallen upon you. While standing at the casket of your departed son your thoughts are with your other son, William, in France, who is suffering from the wounds he received in action. We well understand the anguish of your souls and the sorrow piercing your hearts, and I can assure you of our deepest sympathy.

But you do not stand alone in your affliction. If you will look around you will find that others experience the same bitter woe. The Apostle St. Peter says: "Know that the same afflictions are accomplished in your brethren that are in the world." These words are intended for comfort. When a person is sorely afflicted the thought easily forms in his mind that nobody must suffer as much as he, that his case is beyond comparison, that his affliction exceeds that of anyone else. But if you find anyone afflicted the same way, suffering under the same circumstances, you are convinced that your case is not an isolated one. You find comfort in the thought that there are others who are afflicted in the same way. Besides the tie of common faith, there is the tie of common affliction which binds us Christians together.

Our time is full of evil, trials, trouble and afflictions. Thousands of our sons have been slain on the battle fields and thousands died in the camps, and the list of the dead is growing longer every day. The plague and pestilence that swept over our country has caused grief and sorrow, for which there is no language. Oh, who can describe the heart-ache, the sobs and tears, the grief and sorrow which death caused among us? Today we cannot walk the streets without seeing the stricken look on many a face and read a sad story in many eyes. Oh, these are sad days of parting from dear fiends.

Friend after friend departs,
Who has not lost a friend?
There is no union here of hearts
That finds not here an end.

Yes, we find some comfort in the thought that we stand not alone in our afflictions. It brings some relief to the oppressed heart when we see and know that others feel with us. Therefore our Lord says: "Rejoice with them that do rejoice, and weep with them that weep." Joy and sorrow—is human life not made up of these? Do they not chase each other in our our experience like the sunlights and shadows across the summer fields? Smiles and tears, gain and loss, gratification and disappointment, rest and weariness, health and sickness, life and death—such is the experience of man. And in the midst of such experiences how valuable is human sympathetic fellowship.

We do not under-value the sympathy of loving friends, and yet, human sympathy can at best bring only small and temporary comfort. One there is who understands to comfort, Jesus Christ. He is always ready to speak words of cheer to weary souls. Listen to his comforting words:

"Weep not," said Jesus to the widow of Nain who was burying her only son. To Martha, broken-hearted over the death of her brother, Lazarus, he spoke a "word in season" that has been a word of comfort to bereaved souls ever since:

"I am the Resurrection and the Life." "Let not your hearts be troubled," said Jesus to his disciples, and to all the world he tenderly gives the comforting invitation, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and heavy laden and I will give you rest."

Jesus said, "In my Father's house are many mansions. I go to prepare a place for you. I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there ye may be also." To us, who believe in Christ is given this precious promise.

Friends, the tide of sorrow will flow to the end of the world. Often with those who are in affliction we can do little more than make our sympathy felt, we can but weep with the weeping. And yet we sorrow not as those who have no hope. For us, for all who will receive it, there is a light behind the veil, which gilds the dark cloud and throws a bright rainbow promise across the tears of sorrow. Christ, who died for us, is risen again, and has brought to light a world of joy and gladness "where there shall be no more death neither sorrow nor crying," "and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes."

Amen.

LAKE KATRINE.

Lake Katrine, Feb. 3.—James Hare, chief photographer for Leslie's Magazine, and family, motored from Brooklyn and spent a few days with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Williams. Mr. Hare has lately returned from Italy and with his varied experiences in all parts of the world, is never at a loss in entertaining.

Miss Delia Monroe of Kingston spent Sunday with Miss Mabel Munson.

Theodore Brink and sisters entertained Burton TeBow, John Gallagher, George Wolven and Supervisor Frank Brink Sunday.

Lake Katrine Grange members were proud of the manner in which their installation services were conducted by Worthy Master Henry McCormack of Pomona Grange. The following were installed: Master, Myron J. Boice; overseer, David Kieffer; lecturer, Clarence E. Davis; steward, John Ten Broeck; assistant steward, John Legg; treasurer, Franklyn Snyder; chaplain, Netta M. Parish; secretary, Mary E. Brink; gatekeeper, Charles Van Etten; Flora, Frances Brink; Ceres, Eleanor J. Boice; Pomona, Anna Kieffer; lady assistant steward, Edith Legg. A reception to Worthy Master Boice and his bride followed, and at the close of the banquet Brother McCormack in a few well chosen words presented on behalf of the Grange, a beautiful picture. They have the best wishes of their many friends.

The First Aid Class will meet next Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Louis Shaw.

The many friends of Frank Osterhoudt are grieved to hear of his serious illness and hope for his speedy recovery.

SHURTER WRITES OF BREST CAMP

Hadn't Worked in Three Days, Slept on Y Floor While Waiting to be Sent Home—Camp Merritt a Heavenly Place Compared to Brest.

Mrs. Jesse Shurter of Samsonville has received the following letter from her husband, who hopes soon to be home:

Brest, France, Jan. 14, 1919.

Dear Little Wife:—I hardly know what day it is. Have not washed in so long (it seems long) I have to stop and think when it was. As near as I can remember it was about three days ago at Le-Mans, where I washed and combed my hair along the track, while we were waiting for the train to leave. Came from Le Havre here in a German box car.

Slept last night here on the Y floor. The roof leaked and one had to pick out a dry spot as best he could. Some were on chairs and tables. Guess I'll make my bunk out of chairs tonight so it won't be so damp.

It rained and the wind blew to beat the devil last night. My feet were wet but I've managed to get them partly dry and my shoes greased with some stuff I got way back at Camp Dix. You remember how muddy Camp Merritt was? Well, that place was a heavenly palace alongside of this place.

I came here with 17 other Class B and C men with orders to report here for transportation to the old U. S. A., which means home. Am in a casual camp, where as near as I can understand the fellows are grouped together in companies of 150 fellows from certain districts in the states so what we lack is enough men for a company. Heard today there is a company ready to leave most any time today. It's hard to tell how long it will be before we get our company so we can go, but don't think it will be long.

Never got Olive's letter. Wonder what she will do and say when I get home and it seems impossible that Lawrence is walking, when he was but a tiny little red fellow fast asleep when I left, thirteen months ago. Pretty long time, not girlie?

Went down to see if I could get a wash and found the water was shut off. Think the next time it rains I'll turn my face up and let it get the surprise of a few drops of water and if it rains hard I'll wash it. Ha! Ha! We could soon feel like pigs in this game.

Saw President Wilson, General Pershing, King Albert and had a talk with Jack Johnston, the prize fighter.

Suppose Guy is home, and do you ever hear anything about Ward? Have often wondered if he was over here.

Well, Anna, will close for this time. Kiss the little tots for daddy. Love from hubby.

JESSE SHURTER,
France, A. E. F.

KERHONKSON.

Kerhonkson, Feb. 3.—The funeral of Mrs. J. Addis was held from her late home in Granite on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Addis is the mother of William Addis of this place.

The people of this community are saddened over the death of William Van Etten, who died Tuesday at his home after a short illness of pneumonia. Mr. Van Etten was a kind father and husband and will be greatly missed in his family circle where he was loved. He always had a pleasant word and smile on his face to greet one and he certainly will be missed by everyone. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved family. He is survived by his wife and little daughter, father and mother and sister and brothers.

Clarence Johnson has returned to Hartford, Conn., after spending a few weeks up to his parents.

C. Sickles and son have been very sick but are on the road to recovery.

Orion is 27th Emblem.

Divisional insignia will be worn on the left shoulder by the men of the combat divisions of the American Expeditionary Forces each division having a distinguishing design. That of the 27th Division is a black circle in a red border with the monogram "N. Y. D.," super-imposed and seven stars. It requires some effort to decipher the letters, which look more like a Chinese letter than a monogram, a sort of a cross between a swastika and the abbreviation "&," but the seven stars make it a unmistakable. These stars are grouped in a peculiar manner, like the constellation, Orion, and were thus grouped because somebody had the happy thought that Orion sounded something like the name of the commander of the division, General O'Ryan.

Mr. Gokey Gave the $100.

It was William Gokey of Brooklyn and not William Duffy, as stated in error in The Freeman Monday, that presented the [illegible] Church with a check for $100.

CHARITY BOARD WAITS FOR FUNDS

Audits Bills Amounting to Over $9,000 Which Will be Paid as Soon as the Board Receives Its Appropriation.

The Charity Commissioners at the regular monthly meeting Monday evening audited bills amounting to $9,270.06, which will be paid as soon as the board receives its annual appropriation from the city as there is only a balance of $150 in the treasury with which to pay bills. President Waterbury presided at the session with Commissioners Davis, Lang and Countant and Superintendent Edmonston present.

Dr. Frederick Huhne, physician of the eastern department, reported that during January he had made 64 charity calls, and Dr. W. D. Hasbrouck physician of the western department reported he had made 28 visits during the same period.

The board adopted a resolution authorizing Superintendent Edmonston and President Waterbury to act in all cases of dependency of interest to the board where such cases were likely to become a public charge upon the city whether they be aged and infirm, deserted children or any other cause that may come within the provisions of the poor law of the state.

President Waterbury and Superintendent Edmonston were instructed to attend the mid-winter session of the superintendents of the poor of the state to be held in Albany later this month.

Several routine matters were also discussed and action taken before the board adjourned.

Secretary's Report.

Secretary Edmonston submitted the following report:

Balance in bank Jan. 7, 1919	$ 3.78
Deposited by Supt. with City Treasurer Jan. 31, 1919	148.00
	$ 151.78

Amount of bills to be audited this date $9,270.06.

There are 47 inmates in City Home this date, of which number 27 are males and 20 females.

The Kingston City Hospital report for January showed 10 cases and 107 days' treatment.

Outdoor Relief.

Groceries and provisions given out from City Home during January as follows:

First Ward	$ 8.22
Third Ward	[illegible]
Fourth Ward	2.38
Sixth Ward	20.81
Seventh Ward	11.61

Ninth Ward	14.00
Tenth Ward	157.93
Eleventh Ward	13.97
Twelfth Ward	32.98
Thirteenth Ward	21.50
Total	[illegible]

Shoes Given Out.

Shoes given out by wards from June, 1918, to February 1, 1919, as follows:

First Ward	$ 11.25
Third Ward	12.00
Fourth Ward	26.50
Fifth Ward	7.00
Sixth Ward	30.25
Seventh Ward	9.00
Ninth Ward	3.00
Tenth Ward	17.00
Thirteenth Ward	5.00
Total	[illegible]

The board then adjourned.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, Feb. 4.—Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Clark, Jr., of Schryver street are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a daughter at their home. Both mother and daughter are fine. Her name is Rose Dulcie.

Station Agent Alanson H. Short of the West Shore station, Port Ewen, is ill of influenza. Dr. G. W. Ross is attending him.

Miss Cynthia Lowe of Esopus is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Mary A. Beckwith, on Bayard street.

The Port Ewen West Shore station is closed to traffic on Sunday, but Sunday trains stop there as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Shook have moved from the flat above the baker shop to Rondout.

Miss Jennie Stephenson of Broadway spent the week end with Miss Marguerite Gilbert of Athens.

The W. C. T. U. social, which was to have been held Friday evening at the M. E. Chapel has been postponed until Monday evening, February 10. Kindly take notice of the change of date. Further details will be announced later.

EVANGELIST McKAY

Made Good Impression on Clinton Avenue M. E. Audience.

Beginning last evening and continuing for two weeks, Evangelist McKay will hold a series of meetings at the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church. Following the services held by Mr. McKay at this church, he will for two weeks more hold services at the Trinity M. E. Church in Rondout. There was a large congregation at the Clinton Avenue Church last evening and all were impressed with the speaker as being an exceptionally earnest and forceful speaker. The music for these services at the Clinton Avenue Church will be furnished by a volunteer chorus choir, Mrs. Clayton Smith presiding at the piano. There will be services every night this week, including Saturday, but on next Monday evening there will be no service.

Farm Bureau Met.

There was a meeting of the Ulster County Farm Bureau at the county building, John street, Monday evening but a quorum was not present. Those present talked over various matters, notably the taking over of the Home Economics Association. A meeting will be held in about a month, when a full attendance is expected, and this and other important matters will come up for action.

Insects and Forest Fires.

Insects cause the destruction of more timber that would otherwise be available for building purposes than do forest fires, according to investigations made by the bureau of entomology at Washington.—People's Home Journal.
